Jury Comments

First Prize | 57099

"This project creatively activates the site by carving into the landscape and utilizing a retaining wall. The rice terrace becomes an integral part of the building, and the building, in turn, takes on a protective role over the rice terrace. This creates a shared language between locals and visitors, fostering a more private area for visitors to immerse themselves in learning about the landscape and its processes. The design achieves a remarkable balance between connection and privacy."

Bahar Partovi - Bahar Partovi Design Studio

"The design is delightful with its creatively introducing of a water features, visioning a unified and welcoming landscape. The flowing water blurs the site boundary, symbolizes a continuous connection between visitors and the local community, and serves as a passive cooling strategy. The retaining walls are also worth mentioning; they gracefully vary the space, set a tone of subtlety, and ensure the design's structural soundness. The construction sequence for the terraced lodge is very thoughtful, and unfolds like poetry. Very compelling storytelling and beautiful drawings."

Mingshan Fang - Gensler

Second Prize | 63592

"Sophisticated integration into local architecture. Excellent thought of viewing experience, inviting the whole nature into the living space. 360-degree view from the bedroom, perfect for a backpacker's dream."

Ronay Baris Civas - Karaca Architekten

Third Prize | 59370

"Simple and minimal answer to the brief, leaving most of the site free. The project welcomes clearly both locals and tourists, and functions like a "machine à habiter"."

Nikhil Calas - Faire

Jury Comments

Golden Mention | 63795

"The size and distribution of the lodges facilitate their integration into the urban context. At first glance, the cabins appear as if they have always been there. However, upon closer inspection, subtle details and well-integrated niches and infrastructure reveal the proposal's contemporary design."

Alban Wagener - Alban Wagener Architecture

Golden Mention | 65373

"This project creatively reinterprets the traditional Ifugao house, achieving a harmonious blend with its environment. The design prioritizes the breathtaking surrounding views by strategically placing the functional spaces within the structure, allowing the communal areas to take center stage. The thoughtfully placed openings throughout the building promote natural ventilation while simultaneously creating tranquil havens for visitors."
